Financial Planning Program
The Power of Two

VI Financial Planning In the News

FRONTLINE NEWS: Residency Program: Jump-Starting A Young Planner’s Career, Financial Advisor, March 2011
“…but the firm’s top candidate, Christine Damico, wasn’t scheduled to graduate from Virginia Tech until May 2010.”

“… Christine Damico, Cornerstone’s first financial planning resident, started at the firm in June 2010, shortly after graduating as a finance major with a financial planning concentration from Virginia Tech. Damico, who passed her CFP exam on the first try last fall…”

FRONTLINE NEWS: Beyond The ‘Big Two,’ Financial Advisor, February 2011
“…when I think of the top schools it’s always Texas Tech and Virginia Tech,” says Michael Dubis, an advisor in Madison, Wis.”

Opening the Doors, By Jeff Schlegel, Financial Advisor, December 2010
“… ‘I’m just here to learn,’ Brandon Carroll told the older man to his right as he grabbed an empty seat at a table before the start of an education session at the recent Schwab Impact conference in Boston. He scribbled busily into his notebook during the session, which focused on succession planning.

Carroll, 22, wore a maroon long-sleeve, collared shirt sporting the logo of Virginia Tech’s financial planning program.”

Salaries Inching Up For Entry-Level Financial Advisers,
By Liz Skinner, Investment News, February 27, 2011